"Turning toward God . . ."
by Billy Wade

*"For godly grief produces a repentance that leads to salvation and brings no regret, but worldly grief produces death."
(2 Corinthians 7:10)*

The story is told of a man who went to the doctor complaining that he was tired and run down all the time. The doctor checked him over and finally said, "Well, the best thing you can do is to stop drinking, go on a diet, start jogging and stop carousing around town every night." The man thought about it for a moment and then said: "What's the next best thing?" *

When the woman caught in adultery came to Jesus, he made it plain that we're all guilty. No one can throw stones. But, he also told the woman to go and sin no more-not as much a demand as an invitation, a way to finally live. You see, it is not just a matter of feeling guilty. It is not just a matter of saying we are sorry-though that is a good place to start. So often what we offer is just regret for being caught at something. But what we have to do then is act.

Paul says, ". . . godly grief produces a repentance that leads to salvation . . . but worldly grief produces death." We can wallow in our guilt and it will cripple and kill us, and at times that is what we might think we deserve. But God calls us to repentance, which means turning and heading in another direction. It is turning toward God, the God who knows us so well, but still loves us so much and never turns away from us. "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us," Paul says elsewhere (Romans 5:8).

The truth is we are not always going to get the forgiveness we seek from others; but, there is nothing that God does not forgive. The only unforgivable sin is our refusal to let the Spirit of God into our hearts. We are the only ones standing in the way-and God keeps knocking.
