

Story of Faith: Barbara Martin

I believe that God has guided me well making several major decisions in my life and accompanied me through my life journey. Being raised Catholic and marrying someone outside that faith raised questions:

- Who would give up their faith tradition and convert to the others faith?
- In what faith would our children be raised?

Making a compromise, I agreed to join the Presbyterian Church. And guess what?

I love our church. So many members have such strong faith and have strongly influenced my relationship with God.

Marrying Chris is another major decision I believe God guided me in. Chris has been a strong and loving partner, supportive, and especially helpful during my health struggle. He has been a loving father and grandfather as well.

Thank you God for guiding me toward these decisions.
